The incidents of a car jacking, mob action and attacks on drivers has increased during recent times. The average American spends approximately an hour per day behind the wheel. This course provides the concealed carry user with a set of proven tactics and strategies to overcome an attack while in your vehicle. The class begins with the fundamentals of drawing from holster in a seated position. Training progresses into live fire drills- shooting while seated in an actual vehicle. Trainees will shoot through the windshield to test the effectiveness of the daily carry ammo. Additional training involves near-far threats, passenger and driver side attacks and a pragmatic confirmation exercise.
